

Routing by destination code

The system searches for a match of a destination code of incoming call with configured destination code pattern from the list of [[Destination code patterns]].

In case if match is found, the system uses the list of routes, which are configured for corresponding [[Destination code pattern]].

In case if no match is found, the next priority routing technology is used.

[[Маршрутизация по коду направления|Русский перевод]]